Editor's Window

Of parking spaces and spacious parks. While the City Planning Commission makes an extensive tour of all available parking areas in Carmel and draws some sort of conclusion at the next meeting on August 20th, we have been making a survey of our own in other directions. This was instigated by an irate "Letter to the Editor" which can be read on another page in this issue. There is nothing quite so thought-provoking as someone who is just plain mad, and for a valid reason as we discovered.

There has been much talk, as well as action, involved in retaining the beauty of our city. Each shrub and tree is accorded noble treatment and acclaimed as another bulwark against the disease of creeping concrete-itis. Each naked car flaunting its bare chrome and obese metal hips on and about our streets is considered an affront to the artistically-trained eye of the beholder. So, have you looked at our Municipal Park lately?

Do you care to stroll through and enjoy the "beauty?" or do you simply hurry past and concentrate on greener pastures — like your own back yard? Unfortunately our park is Carmel's front yard and it ain't pretty. It is even far from neat, unless you like the old-fashioned casual touch, say unfettered beds of litter and unkempt greenery. There has been some attempt made, somebody cares; Bill Askew, our Superintendent of the Streets, and his crew, for instance. But whither winged civic pride? Devendorf Park is rarely used for special events. Little attempt has been made to attract sunbrowsers and plant lovers, as has been so well done in front of the library. No, we are not going to harangue the city on this point. We feel that this project should involve the citizens.

A Sunday stroll along our streets will give a gardener, ample opportunity to stop and talk with others of his ilk as they labor in favor of the hedge, the border and the bed, against the snail, the earwig, the spiteful mite and the insidious aphis. Wouldn't it be pleasant to have some of this energy occasionally diverted to the park? It would be nice to see a volunteer gardening department spring into being, ever ready with spade and sprayer to come to the aid of our park. Imagine, with some delight, such events being held as begonia and azalea shows: special Easter and Christmas exhibits. As long as we have this last, precious plot we should use it, not abuse it. A suggestion would be that one or more of our civic organizations plan a Fall flower festival, charge admission and donate the proceeds to maintaining Devendorf.

We would invite your ideas and comments on this matter. If Carmel truly wants to maintain its individuality a great deal of heart must be put into the effort. The heart of the matter, or the town, seems to be the park. In the problematical world in which we find ourselves, discussions on the pruning of a tree or the re-seeding of a lawn might bring us closer together than some of the issues which now divide us.

Jim Burgess — Samaritan

Burgess Auto Service, Carmel, has received an AAA award for outstanding service to the motoring public. The award was presented to Jim Burgess, owner of the garage, by Edwin S. Moore, San Francisco, executive vice president of the California State Automobile Association, at a meeting of the Carmel Lions Club, Tom's Cafe, last Tuesday night.

In making the presentation, Moore said that the excellent service the garage had rendered both to AAA members and the motoring public in general has been due to the fine management and conscientious work of Burgess and his crew.

"We review the service records of all of our contract stations periodically," Moore said, "and Burgess Auto Service has consistently ranked at or near the top in terms of courteous and efficient service to AAA members."

Burgess Auto Service has been affiliated with the California State Automobile Association since 1939 and has served as the official AAA station in the Carmel area for 24 years.

Jim Burgess first entered the automotive field in 1924, a year after he came to the United States from Scotland, when he went to work for the Monterey Garage. He later worked for the Carmel Garage until 1939 when he began his own company.

Leroy Cyril Delaney, well known resident of Carmel for the past 16 years, died yesterday at his home, Casanova street and 4th avenue, following an extended illness.

Mr. Delaney was born Jan. 12, 1881, in Harrisburg, Pa.

He served for 17 years with the Gen. Nelson A. Miles expeditionary force in Puerto Rico during the Spanish-American War and as an officer in World War I from 1917 to 1920, in France.

An attorney by profession, Mr. Delaney was graduated in 1903 from the Dickinson Law School of Pennsylvania.

After coming to Carmel, he was a real estate broker until his retirement in 1960.

Surviving are: His wife, Mrs. Muriel A. Delaney of Carmel; a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy D. Berner of Miami, Fla.; a stepdaughter, Mrs. D. L. Gabbert of Los Angeles; a nephew, Richard D. Bourke of Burlingame; two nieces, Mrs. Eileen Lang of Monterey and Mrs. Dorothea B. Cooney of Santa Clara; and one grandchild.

His sister, Mrs. Helen Delaney Bourke of Carmel, died July 10, 1963.

Requiem mass will be celebrated at 10 a. m. Friday in Carmel Mission Basilica. Burial will take place in the Monterey Catholic Cemetery.

The Mission Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

Friends wishing to make contributions in the memory of Mr. Delaney may do so to the restoration fund of Carmel Mission Basilica.

Little Mary Sunshine

White Oaks Summer Theatre's last major production of the Summer season will be "Little Mary Sunshine". This musical comedy with book, lyrics and music by Rick Besoyan is a spoof on the Victor Herbert, Friml, Romberg period.

An instant hit during its Off-Broadway showing, the piece will play at the rustic barn theatre in Carmel Valley Thursday through Sunday evenings to September 8.

Feathers... From the Shaft

No. 19

By Harry the Fletcher

From work and frustration I took a vacation, with hope to catch up on my sleep. At home I found listed some chores they insisted was something that just wouldn't keep.

The fence should be mended, the flag-pole up-ended, the roof needed shingling again; the gate re-positioned, the boat reconditioned, the barn needs a new coat of stain.

Then next I must pitch-in and rebuild the kitchen, which means putting in all new glass. And get up at dawning to put a new lawn in, and seed with a fancy blue grass. And while I'm about it (they can't do without it) the patio should be cemented; the barbecue pit must be altered to fit a new kind of grill they've invented.

So, in case you may ask, I accomplished this task with pride to my own satisfaction, by power of suggestion without any question, and also the art of distraction.

A week at the beach put the kids out of reach; the wife went to visit her mother; and I went to bed with my plans made ahead that one day's rest calls for another.

CARMEL COUPLE HONEYMOON IN GREECE

Captain Robert P. Beebe, Carmel, Calif., and his wife, noted Carmel artist, the former Linford Donovan, pause briefly to permanently record a moment of their honeymoon while in Greece. Following a two-day stay at newly-opened Athens Hilton Hotel, the couple left on their yacht, the "Passagemaker" for a cruise around the Greek islands. The yacht was built specially for the trip in Singapore.

Don't Be Fooled

Several reports have been received that a gracious and charming gentleman who looked exactly like Henry Fonda was enjoying himself tourist-wise among the pines in Carmel this week-end past. To those of you who also thought you saw him, may we relay the information that he was Mr. Fonda, who also found Carmel gracious and charming.

ORGANIZATIONS

Piggy Bank Bonanza

At the last Carmel Kiwanis Club luncheon, member Bill De Marco enlightened the guests on the art of numismatology (which is not quite as frightening as it sounds) — coin collecting. He noted that this is big business today, over one billion dollars in 1962. Unlike the stock market the value of coins almost always goes up and is never less than their face value. Some profits of over 1,000 per-cent or more have been made.

One of the members produced an 1830 penny he had acquired in 1927. It was worn almost smooth but in almost uncirculated condition. It was judged to be worth approximately $165.

Exhibitor

Zyta Laky of Carmel will be among the members of the American Artists Professional League whose paintings will be shown at Villa Montalvo in Saratoga this month.

Mrs. Laky was formerly of the Royal Academy of Budapest.

Hail Carmel High

Still another graduate of Carmel High School has received scholastic honors. Mr. Christopher Jones of Carmel has been placed on the Dean's Honor List in the College of Fine Arts at the University of California, Los Angeles campus.

Easy Aces

Last week Colonel and Mrs. W. C. Whiting of Carmel starred in the Alaska Pairs, single session championship event in the Summer National Championships of the American Contract Bridge League in Los Angeles. In a field of 1316 players, the Whitings won top score in their section.

Public Invited

"The Problem of De Facto Segregation" will be the topic of Dr. Eason Monroe's lecture Sunday, August 11, at 7:30 p.m. in the Monterey Public Library. The lecture is open to the public.

Dr. Monroe is currently executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Southern California. He received his education in California and earned his doctorate at Stanford University. He has taught at the University of California, Pennsylvania State University, Stanford University, and San Francisco State College. He gave up chairmanship of the English Department at the latter school in protest against the teacher test oath. He has served in his present position with the ACLU since 1952.

The public is requested to use the Madison Street entrance to the library.

LINCOLN LANE

A NEW SERIES
COURTYARDS
VILLAGE
Lincoln Lane

Carmel, like many of the more charming habitats of the world, has its private courts and secret lanes. These byways lead to a world of the unexpected and the unusual. It is up to the visitor to discover them. Being a kindly sort, may we help you. Walk up Lincoln Street, north of Ocean Avenue, between Fifth and Sixth on the east side. You will be delighted to find Lincoln Lane — a treed and flowered world of its own which may remind you of your European adventures. On your right, Kent of Carmel — the owner, J. Robert Wolf. His distinctive store offers a select line of men's apparel and accessories, including the fine Bronzini neckwear and sports shirts, and Jackman sports jackets. This gracious "country squire", together with his charming wife Betty, greet you in true Bostonian fashion. Take special notice of the alluring luggage, and office and bar appurtenances offered.

Next, stop by the Yankee Pantry for an excellent breakfast or luncheon snack. Meet the 'proprietors': Maryline White and Louise Shangle. For twenty years they were Manhattan career girls — Louise as an architect and interior designer, Maryline in the field of publicity and advertising. Feeling that they wanted to work in a more relaxed atmosphere, they undertook a country venture, the "Snow Goose Inn" in Maine. On the theory of "Take chances, make mistakes, then correct them — nothing ventured nothing gained", they made a success of it. But, Maine winters proving a little severe, and having heard of California, they purchased a luxury trailer, found the West, and settled in Carmel. And so — the Yankee Pantry. Still at home in their trailer, they live with their three Scottie show dogs, and delight customers with their delicious individually-served meals.

All well fed now? Next, browse through "Earlene's Boutique" (her quest column can be read elsewhere in this week's edition). A stunning lady with exquisite taste, she offers the most piquant in all that is dear to the feminine. Looking like a model herself, she has a background as a fashion consultant and expert, and also manages to be a Carmel housewife, gourmet cook, and mother of three charming daughters (should I mention a grandmother, too?).

If you have young men in tow, or on your shopping agenda, your next stop must be "Young Man's Fashions". The charming, capable proprietess is Corinne Swalwell. Having had three childrens' shops, one in Seattle, one in Pebble Beach and now two in Carmel, she is knowledgable in this field, and leaves nothing to be desired and everything to be available to the youngsters.

Maintaining both Carmel shops, she lives in a marvellous pink house on Fourth and San Antonio, and shares an enthusiasm for dogs with her twin sister, Arline who maintains the Windridge Kennels for cockers and poodles.

You will want to return, certainly, to dine "Sans Souci" at the immaculate and beautifully appointed restaurant hosted by Walter and Maxi Becker. The Beckers, who were born and betrothed in Germany, were coaxed to Canada by the Canadian Ambassador to operate an exclusive men's club. Like so many of us, while vacationing in Carmel they made the decision, fortunately, so that we may enjoy their excellent cuisine. Their son, Mike, a student at Carmel High, is a musician whom you may have seen around and about the Bach Festival. Evidently all the Beckers make beautiful music together, culinary as well as otherwise.

Have a pleasant stroll through Lincoln Lane.

Steak and Shop Talk

Last Thursday night the Carmel Business Association met for their Annual barbeque at the filter plant in Carmel Valley. Under the oaks the aroma of steaks, broiled by Vince Colleto to Sal Buffo, inspired the group to tackle the meaty problem at hand as well as that of the town's business community.

Girls Birds and Bees

An interesting recent experiment in diet under stress found four entrants in the Powder Puff Derby, annual coast-to-coast light plane competition by woman pilots, using a food product of honey and pollen both as a "sustained lift" during the grueling three-day event, and as emergency survival food.

All spoke highly of the results. Unheated except for its carob coating, the bar also contains rose hips, gelatin, dates, vanilla.

Selection of the product was dictated by considerations of: 1) Quick yet sustained energy — in light, convenient form requiring no preparation; 2) Rapid assimilation and simple digestion; 3) Satisfaction of appetite, with no heavy after-eating feeling, and a minimum of afterthirst. These factors also make it attractive to outdoor sportsmen and sportswomen.

(You may now draw your own conclusions).

The Sur Coast

By ELIZABETH FULLER JONES

TWO REUNIONS within the past two weeks has been the happy experience of Mrs. Philip Johnson of Big Sur. In Chicago, Mrs. Johnson attended the first reunion of the WAC Army Band of which she was director during World War II. Warrant Officer Johnson graduated from the Army Music School in Washington and during the war years traveled extensively, about the United States with the band helping to create more interest in supporting the war effort. The second reunion was in Mason City, Iowa, where her high school graduating class held its thirtieth annual reunion."

BIG SUR MAINTENANCE STATION of the Division of Highways, Stateof California, has as new foreman, Ralph F. Dengate who has been associated with the Division for many years. Mr. and Mrs. Dengate came to Big Sur from Shandon, a Maintenance Station located eighteen miles east of Paso Robles, where they were stationed for the past six months. The Dengate's home is in San Luis Obispo. Their three sons are there: Wayne and William attend college at Cal Poly and Willard is in business. Foreman Dengate's highway maintenance area covers the distance between Garrapata Creek and Anderson Canyon along Highway One.

Visitors at the Dengates new home in Big Sur this past month have been Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bladen of Charlotte, North Carolina and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dengate of Tracy. Ralph Dengate's sister, Mrs. Bladen and brother Richard were here for a family reunion.

SCENIC ZONING FOR HIGHWAY ONE from Malpaso Creek south to the San Luis Obispo County Line, was approved by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors last week. A public hearing on this Scenic Zoning has been set by the County Planning Commission, to be held August 27, 1963 in Salinas.

LOMA VISTA GARDENS, IN BIG SUR ON HIGHWAY ONE, are a riot of color now with rare and beautiful epiphyllum and tuberous begonias in full bloom. The abundance of blossoms with their myriad of colors will continue for the next month or more. Within the season countless individuals stop to enjoy and photograph the lovely display. Owners Mr. and Mrs. Steve Jaeger charge no admission fee but many people wish to show their appreciation in some tangible way and do so by making a contribution into a large mayonnaise jar placed just inside one of the green house areas. In the past the Jaeger's have given all such donations to the building fund of the Monterey Peninsula Hospital. They will continue to give these contributions to some worthwhile organization.

RED CROSS FIRST AID COURSES are currently being given in the Big Sur Area by Ted Bergquist, a trained, qualified instructor. The standard course has just been completed by members of the Forest Service and Park Service and others in the community. A primary course began last Monday at the Big Sur Hot Springs Lodge and will meet each week, during August, from 8:00 until 11:00 p.m. Among those receiving their certificates for the Standard Course in First Aid, just completed, are Edna Cortright, Blanche Hanshew, Ronald Henshew, Lois Ramsdell and Gerry Ramsdell of the State Park and Don Eberle, Wilfred Harlan, Norman Perryman and John Uhle from the Forest Service.

The Carmel Chapter of The American Red Cross maintains an ambulance at Big Sur for the convience of residents in the Sur and South Coast Areas. Drivers and attendants, who respond to calls for the ambulance service, are trained, qualified men who volunteer their services.

OPENING DAY OF DEER SEASON last Saturday, brought over six hundred and fifty hunters into the upper Los Padres National Forest area through Forest stations at Chews Ridge, Bouchers Gap, Carmel River Station and Big Sur. With the extremely heavy use of Forest lands during deer season (which continues until September 22) by hunters and others, all are urged to use utmost caution with campfires and with smoking. Think of Smokey and "REMEMBER, ONLY YOU CAN PREVENT FOREST FIRES".

Last week two men from the Big Sur Guard Station, Wilfred Harlan and John Uhle were sent to the southern Los Padres Forest area to fight a fire that burned over 1200 acres on Figueroa Mountain near Santa Maria.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Forster of Big Sur (Telephone Big Sur 2031) will gladly tell you how you can obtain some of these redwood trees. The trees, started from seed five years ago, are now several feet tall. The Forsters will be pleased to give information on planting and care.

THE MONTEREY PENINSULA CHAPTER of the NATIONAL SECRETARIES ASSOCIATION (INTERNATIONAL) had as guest speaker for their regular monthly meeting last Tuesday evening, Dr. Arnold Manor, Chairman of the Monterey Urban Renewal Agency. Dr. Manor outlined the work of the Agency since its inception, told of past accomplishments, present undertakings and future goals. His informative talk was followed by a question and answer period.

The Secretaries Association is a professional, non-profit, non-union, non-political, non-sectarian association which has a definite educational program designed to meet the needs of the employed secretary. The Monterey Peninsula Chapter has among its members secretaries from many professions and businesses on the peninsula.

The Code of Ethics of the National Secretaries Association is: "Recognizing the invaluable influence of woman's life in all she touches, we resolve to inject into our business association the highest ideals for which the National Secretaries Association stands; to lend grace, charm and sobriety to all our dealings, and to maintain poise and dignity under all conditions and circumstances. "We resolve to further the interest of whatever business we follow, to exemplify loyalty and conscientiousness, and exercise patience at all times;

"To keep our lives clean and wholesome, that our very presence may bring life and light to those about us;

"To encourage ambition, lend hope, and nourish faith, remembering that the eternal laws of God are the only ones under which we can truly succeed."

CARMEL VALLEY
MEMOIRS OF JOE HITCHCOCK
By Marion Crush

Continuing with the 1930 account of the Borondas by Dan Martin. . . "Jose Manuel Boronda belonged to a family of skilled and noted vaqueros, which infers more than comes under one's observation of today. His brother Eusebio Boronda, who owned vast holdings in the Salinas Valley, was awarded the first legal contract between the State of California and any individual, enterprise, or corporation to supply bear on any and all public occasions within the State. As a distinction for his qualifications as a vaquero he was the recipicent of a handsomely decorated gold and silver mounted saddle valued at many hundreds of dollars at the first State Fair held in Sacramento. He was the winner in a competition against all the noted horsemen throughout California. Mr. Eusebio Boronda's visits to his brother's Laureles Rancho were frequent and memorable for he always had with him some of his trained horses. He and his brother had little difficulty in lassoing a grizzly and leading him into the arena for those occasions.

"The arena where the bear and bull fights were held was built of mortar and stones and was situated some 75 or 100 yards east of the adobe building. Monterey in those early years was the mecca of the grandees of California and their visits to the Los Laureles Rancho were frequent, notwithstanding the tedious transporation by ox cart over the dusty trail for a period of some six or seven hours duration. This was cheerfully withstood in joyous expectancy.

"The more direct route traveled by the ox cart during most of the season was from Monterey by the Huerta miejia, (old garden) just west of the Hotel Del Monte's golf links. (Now the Navel PGS.) Then over a tableland and a low pass into the head of Canada de la Segunda, then down into and up the Carmelo Valley crossing the river several times — which was more direct and shorter than the highway today. But in the event the river was swollen, they would travel the Monterey-Salinas road as far as Laguna Seca (dry lake) ranch then up a canyon onto and along the main ridge and down a point decending into the Valley in the vicinity of the dwelling owned by Mr. Joe Wolter.

"In the year 1813 the oldest son was born to the Boronda family and named Juan Demata and who being the oldest son and while not attending school, aided his father in caring for his flocks and herds over the vast country that was all open space. From his experience he became a skilled vaquero. . . ."

In the late 1860's the Borondas sold the Los Laureles to Nathan W. Spaulding who developed a cattle industry under the management of his brother-in-law, Kinzea Klinkenbeard. Mr. Klinkenbeard planted the eucalyptus trees that border Boronda Road and which are not giants. His wife Ella and he raised their family in the Boronda Adobe. One little girl who died was buried just back of the present Los Laureles Lodge. Her grave, surrounded by a little fence, was tended by various residents until 1945. A marble headstone bore the inscription: "Esther, Beloved Daughter of Kinsea and Ella Klinkenbeard, May 25, 1872, aged 3 years, five months, and 10 days. Tho lost to sight, to memory dear." As children, we too decorated the little grave on special days.

In 1871 Nathan W. Spaulding became the 13th Mayor of Oakland, California. In 1952 the Oakland Tribune published a Centennial edition which included an article about Mr. Spaulding entitled, "Taken For A Rail Ride," from which I quote the following:

". . . With his many duties to attend to, also being affiliated with the U. S. Treasury, he had time to develop the Los Laureles Ranch, get the proper surveys, and fence the ranch lines along the Valley road. . . " Some of the fences he built are still in evidence along the road. Some of those fences came from lumber by boat from San Francisco which was unloaded at the cove at Pt. Lobos. From there it was hauled up the Valley by four horse teams. This fencing marked the first modern fences in the Vailley. Mr. Spaulding also brought water from the upper Carmel River by means of flumes and ditches. The Klinkenbeards used the Boronda Adobe until they built the first wooden building of what is now the Los Laureles Lodge.

More about the Borondas and the Los Laureles tract next time.

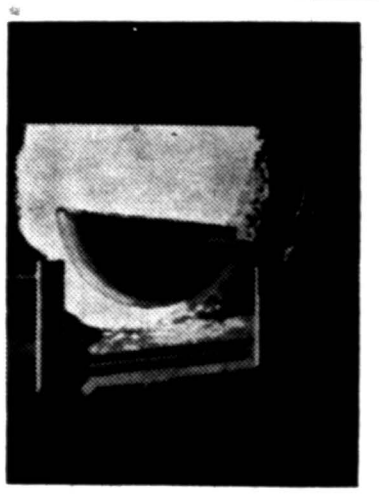
WHAT'S DOING

D. D. Muir, your Telephone Manager in Carmel



Did you know that we use fire to help save you money? In big furnaces, scraps of telephone wire are melted down; then the metal is used to make new wire. In fact, we gather up all worn-out telephone equipment and salvage and renew all reusable parts. Damaged phone booths, for example, are rebuilt good as new, and even the cartons new telephones come in are used over and over. These are just some of the things that help keep down the cost of telephone service to you.

With an extension wallphone next to your workbench, you can stay on the job while you take or make calls. Sure saves a lot of steps.

It's always a good idea to teach your youngsters how to use the telephone at an early age. You never know when they might have to use the phone in an emergency. Perhaps one of the first things they should know is how to reach the Operator. She's always a willing source of help.

You'd be surprised how often people miss parts of a telephone conversation when the other party doesn't speak directly into the mouthpiece. It's a helpful point to remember whenever you make a call.

Old Dobbin's not the only one who knows about nosebags. Take a look in back of one of our service trucks and you may well see a nosebag, along with a beatin' iron. In plain talk, these are a canvas tool bag, and a hammer. We've nicknamed a lot of the equipment we use to serve you. So, if you hear a telephone man on a stick ask for his hand shoes, you'll know he's on a telephone pole and wants his gloves.

Once Upon Their Toes

A beautiful Princess and a handsome Prince are in a palatial ballroom of the Palace. The ladies and gentlemen of the court assemble for the wedding of Aurora and Desire. Among the guests are Florina and the Bluebird, Puss in Boots, Red Riding Hood and the Wolf, Cinderella, and the Lilac Fairy. This will be the scene in the third act of "Sleeping Beauty" being presented by San Francisco's Ballet Celests. Further enhanced by elaborate costuming and the beloved music of Peter Tschaikowsky, this world reknowned ballet will be a special treat for balletomones and their children. The program will also include the whimsical "Peter and the Wolf" and "Verdiana", a charming abstract which captures, in motion the essence of Verdi's lyrical melodies.

By request, San Francisco's Ballet Celeste is again appearing in this area as part of their summer tour. A resident company of San Francisco, they operate the Harding Theater in that city nine months of the year, as well as touring over 70,000 miles throughout the United States. Five of their dancers were selected to appear with Bolshoi Ballet this past winter. Closely patterned after the Bolshoi and Royal Danish Ballet Companies. Ballet Celests appeared before audiences totaling more than 40,000 people.

Two performances are scheduled locally by this talented company on Saturday, August 10th at 8:00 p.m. and Sunday, August 11th at 2:00 p.m. at the Sunset Auditorium in Carmel. Advance tickets are on sale at Central Box Office, 6th and Dolores Sts., Carmel and in Monterey at the A B C Music Center, 298 Alvarado St. for $1.50 adults and $1.00 for children under twelve years. All seats are unreserved and tax exempt.

The Hills of Home

By Guest Columnist Anne Weeks

What does the buyer seek when he wants to own a bit of Carmel? He is not a "typical" purchaser whose requirements for a home must grow with the size of his family or with the need to point to his property as a status symbol of his growing business prestige; he is the mature man, the business or professional man, the artist, writer or teacher, the individual who seeks to satisfy that long-felt desire to find the "gentle pastures of reflection, of kindliness, of warmth and fine thoughts, all the rewards which succeed the terrible struggle". (Louis Bromfield "Possession").

He seeks those assets that are more surely found in Carmel. . . a setting for his home rather than a floor plan; seclusion among some tall pines or twisted oaks, a glimpse of the sea or the sound of its fury, the privilege of seeing the full moon rise from or the sunset reflected on the hills, or the feeling of open space on a lagoon. . . These requirements, based on special values, have attracted an increasing number of prospective owners. . . their demand has exceeded the supply of available properties; Carmel, the village, is not expandable. Thus the market value of its real estate has increased.

Gone forever are the days when a vacationer in our Village, falling in love with its unusual charm, could, on impulse, purchase a quaint cottage for a few thousand (perhaps as little as fifteen hundred) dollars. With some paint, a bolt of gingham and a few items of furniture he could transform a small redwood "retreat" into Ye Olde Carmel Cottage. When his summer drew to a close, he could find a tenant (teacher preferred) who would vacate at term's end. Many an owner paid for his investment many times over by such a system and found, at his retirement, that his property had risen in value to a degree where it was worthy of enlarging for his full-time home!

To cite some examples: we know of the purchase of a lot (40' x 100') south of Ocean Avenue some five blocks from the shops for $150 in 1908. Today, due to the scarcity of unimproved building sites, this same lot would be sold for $12,000. Some thirty-seven years ago a local realtor built, with the help of an unemployed painter and an impoverished truck-driver who donated old bridge timbers in return for a loan, a delightful small cottage with a bit of Old-English rustic charm. Total investment for house and lot. . . $2500. Two years ago this property, with its original atmosphere still in evidence, sold for $27,000.

Will these values hold? Is the buyer justified in paying some twenty thousand dollars for the simplest Carmel cottage or thirty-five thousand dollars for a vacant lot along Scenic Drive? Should he build his home at a minimum cost of some sixteen dollars per square foot? The answer is there for those who know what they seek and where it can be found. . . those who possess the gift of awareness and can achieve a sense of satisfaction when they have reached their goal.

EVERY HOME-MAKER

to bring peace to the household

Today's homemaker finds it increasingly important to maintain an atmosphere of peace in the family, where each member can find strength to meet the problems of the outside world.

In Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy many families are finding the intelligent answer to all their problems.

Science and Health may be read or examined, together with the Bible, at any Christian Science Reading Room. Or it may be purchased at $3.

TUB THUMPING

"Now California is first in political bossism", commented Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee (R., Salinas) upon the house resolution adopted yesterday by the California State Assembly which removed all Republican committee chairmen and vice chairmen from their posts, and deprived Republicans of the right to vote in the election of a Speaker for the Assembly.

"Throughout this session of the Legislature, as in all previous sessions, I have endeavored to do what my conscience told me was best for the people of my district, and of the State of California. As those who have followed my record well know, this course has sometimes led me into disagreements with other members of my own party, and even to adopt positions which were unpopular with both political parties. I have never backed away from a fight for my conception of the public interest, and I have never tolerated any interference with my right, or anyone's right, to vote as I or he sees fit."

"In my opinion, my actions have been in keeping with the highest principles in 20th Century California politics. This State took its rightful place in national politics when Hiram Johnson had the courage and greatness to strike off the fetters of boss rule. The progressive independence of Johnson and his successors, along with the reforms they instituted, became the envy of, and the models for, citizens and governments throughout our nation."

"Now the Democratic leadership in the State Assembly would have us deny this great heritage. They would turn our State Assembly into a one-party house; our Legislature into a one-house Legislature; and, if ambition were in itself a guarantee of success, their own party into a one-man party. They have just finished systematically disenfranchising every Republican assemblyman, and they are now ready, willing and able to take on any dissident members of their own party, should they dare to raise their heads."

"It is hard not to be pessimistic at a time when all the political wisdom which we have so painfully accumulated in California during the last half-century is thrown to the winds in order to satisfy the vanity of a single man. However, I am reassured by the knowledge that what the citizens of this State did once behind Hiram Johnson, they can do again. I am convinced that the voters of neither party want their state government, or even one house of it, run like Tammany Hall or the Mafia."

"If the method by which veteran Republicans were removed from their committee chairmanships and committees has enlightened one single citizen or legislator on the way that politics are conducted Unruh-Style, I will consider its loss a worthy contribution towards the return of the fundamental principles of good government to the California State Assembly."

To review a review can be a puzzlement. Careful note-taking on the program margins is of absolutely no use, because if you look down to write something profound you may miss a "black-out" skit. So we didn't — take notes that is. Here-in, a montage of a thoroughly delightful evening.

This revue includes a prime collection from some of De Bono's earlier pieces, as seen at The Studio, plus new material. Gary Carver's musical presentation (he and Dolores Claman also provided additional music) accords him his own personal curtain call. Ruth Jordan Allan's stage arrangements and lighting magic emphasize the fresh quality of the production. There is always praise for the costuming by Betty Hackett. She seems to manage effects with a minimum of furbelow and folderol at the same time revealing new innovations. Additional material is attributed to Timothy Gray and Richard Maury; to praise it is to say that it is on a caliber with Mr. De Bono's.

Nothing need be said about the cast individually, as they are equally as spritely, brightly and rightly so.

A production of this kind, fast-paced, exhuberant and giving cast nor audience little time to exhale, often brings the remark "Those are hard-working youngsters!" We know this to be true. In the case of "Here We Go Again", however, the smoothness and pace of the production leave you with the feeling that the participants are just up there having fun — and, assuredly, you down there in the audience will be sharing the same.

It is not quite sporting to divulge the contents of the various skits and numbers to an anticipated audience, as it rather spoils the surprise element necessary to the successful musical review. Outstanding, though, we felt, were "Whatever Happened to Baby Gloria?", "Kismet, Quick", "Ladies of the Afternoon Cultural Fellowship", "Funnies" and "In Bed With the Reader's Digest": a special twang on the last guitar is Cliff Berry's "Monterey Folk Festival—Why It Failed".

The review will run alternately with "Bye Bye Birdie".

Summation: lots of bounty — no mutiny.

Sea and Ceramics

Plans for the fourth annual Rock-O-Rama at Morro Bay are rapidly coming to fulfillment, according to the committee at this picturesque coastal community. With the Labor Day holiday a short five weeks away, the scheduled events are coming into focus, all designed for the enjoyment of local citizens and visitors alike.

Topping the list will be the Tournament of Lights, Sunday evening, September 1st. This is a parade of boats, lighted and decorated, ranging from the commercial fishing fleet to the modest, as well as palatial, pleasure craft. Cash prizes, trophies, and valuable gifts make the event more inviting for the boating entrants. The parade will form at dusk near the site of the new Museum of Natural History, at White's Point in the State Park, and proceed north past the viewing public along the Embarcadero.

Ceramics will be a main attraction in the two day showing. A competition is included in the showing, with the award of three Freddies, the Oscars of the ceramic world, given to the winners. The show and competition are open to anyone, but entries must be in by August 15. They may be obtained by contacting Ward's, 400 Fifth Street, Morro Bay.

The general theme of the festival is nautical, and local townspeople and businessmen will wear appropriate costumes to follow the theme.

Plans Afoot

In preparation for their Septeber Rummage Sale, members of the Carmel Women's Club is holding a "kick-off" luncheon for members on Monday, August 12, at 12:30 in their clubhouse. A luncheon of salads and desserts will be provided by the members who are asked to bring their choice of these two items. Cards will follow the luncheon and members may invite their friends to attend under the usual arrangement.

Miss Ianthe Densmore, president, states that the Ways & Means Committee urges each member to participate in the Annual Rummage Sale, and to bring her contributions to the luncheon meeting. Or, if she has larger items that need transporation, she may advise Miss Densmore so that a pick-up may be arranged.

Cattle rustling has become a major problem on many remote ranches in Nevada. (And on many T.V. stations as well.)

The L Shaped Boom

Currently showing at the Steinbeck Theatre on Cannery Row and the Globe in Salinas is this motion picture which should be highly commended to you (adults only). Not often is an entertainment of this sort found reviewed here. However, in this case, it is felt that it might be well worth your while.

Starring Leslie Caron, it is as sensitive a treatment of a myriad of delicate subjects as we have seen. The simple story tells of a young French girl who comes to London determined to have an illegitimate child and of her influence on the people in the frowsty rooming house she makes her home. Among the people touched by her are a negro jazzman, whose portrayal is a wonder of articulate incoherency; the man who provides her the first moments of genuine tenderness in her life; the Music Hall entertainer who lives with memories of her one true love and her World War successes and the beldame of the establishment and her two-night pigeons who operate in the basement. Leslie Caron as the girl who loves them and sadly leaves them should be a nominee for an Academy Award. A classic vignette is performed by the excellent Emlyn Williams as a doctor who befriends her.

We think you will be glad to have seen it.

COMMANDMENTS FOR SAFE DRIVING

By Rev. John B. Fritz, Miles City, Montana

I

"THOU shalt not have any other gods before thee, neither the idolatry of a long record of safe driving, nor the idea that the worship of thy family at thy side exempts thee from trouble, nor yet of a Godless unconcern for sudden death."

II

"THOU shalt not make unto thee any image before thine eyes of the moon in heaven, nor of scenic wonders or sun-worshippers on earth to point them out, not the innocent appearance of the thing under thy foot, for the iniquities of the fathers that do so shall be visited upon the children in broken bones and crushed hopes and the payment of the remaining installments on the car to the third and fourth generation."

III

"THOU shalt not take the name of the traffic officer who apprehends thee in vain, for the judge will not hold him guiltless who presents no other defense than profanity."

IV

"THOU shalt remember the Sabbath day with its promise of eternal life, but be not eager to enter into it at ninety miles an hour."

V

"HONOR the admonition of thy father and thy mother when thou considerest the glamor of thy surroundings, that thy days may be long upon the land which thy parents sacrificed to give thee."

VI

"THOU shalt not kill, neighter upon the left hand side of the road nor upon the right, nor even by demanding thine own privileges, for the one who may get killed may be thy self, and thou wilt be as dead as though thou weren't wrong."

VII

"THOU shalt not commit adulteration by mixing alcohol with thy gasoline, nor by demonstrating a double standard of road morality, nor by looking upon a new speed record to lust after it."

VIII

"THOU shalt not steal a sneak on a red light, nor around a road curve, not the right of thy neighbor to bring his family home alive."

IX

"THOU shalt not bear false witness when thou art paged on the highway, for the officer hath paced thee for many miles, hoping to identfiy thee before the ambulance takes thee away."

"THOU shalt not covet the place ahead of thy neighbor, nor his space on the other side of the white line, nor his horsepower, nor his smirk as he passes thee, nor his date with the mortician, nor anything that is thy neighbors."

The loss of life from motor vehicle accidents in the United States during the summer period, June-August, exceeds 3,000 persons per month.

Back To School

Monterey Peninsula College officials are making plans for the fall influx of students.

Programming and counseling will begin August 19, when prospective day students may start making appointments to see counselors between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. Registrar Louise White points out that students should file applications, transcripts and the required polio verifications before that date, however.

All students who have not previously attended MPC must take placement examinations either August 22 or 29, 8:30 a.m. in the Armory on campus. The examinations cover scholastic aptitude, English proficiency and mathematical ability.

Registration validation will occur on two days this year: September 5 and 6. Students will be notified as to which day they will be required to be on campus. Classes open Tuesday, September 10.

Nine-week summer session classes at MPC will continue through August 23.

LAW IN ACTION

CONTEMPT OF COURT

The court is a legal stage highly charged with the drama of two sides seeking to prevail. Their lawyers use all their skills to advance their client's cause. The stakes are often high — in dollars, in a person's life, his good name, or his liberty.

Here the judge must make sure that the parties obey the rules, that the trial is fair, and that it takes place in an atmosphere of respect and serious inquiry.

And so, sometimes the judge must enforce order and punish disrespect. He does this by holding offenders "in contempt of court," and for this to scold, to fine, or jail them.

The judge may reach beyond the courtroom itself and punish a person who disobeys a court order, or is late, or defames the court outside the court room.

Under our "adversary" theory of a trial the lawyer's sworn duty is to speak up for his client to the fullest extent allowable under the law to promote justice. For if each side does so, the odds are that all aspects of the case will come out.

But there are times when in his zeal a lawyer may disturb the order of a court. How far can he go for the sake of his client? It depends.

On this point the American Bar Association says "no fear of judicial disfavor or public unpopularity should restrain the lawyer from the full discharge of his duty."

The higher courts often review a judge's ruling holding a person in contempt, and at times may overrule him.

A court can hold a person in contempt when he disobeys a court order to testify or produce records. An improper attempt to influence the court or any of its officers is a ground for contempt.

From A Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

Twelve essays compose the first book on our list this week, a book entitled Eisenhower As President. It was edited by Dean Albertson, who also wrote the introduction. The book is said to give a broad picture of Eisenhower's concept of the presidency, as well as a study of his dealings with various problems.

The first trans-continental railroad is the subject of a book by Wesley Griswold which is called A Work Of Giants. This is the great saga of the Union Pacific and the Central Pacific railroads as they bridged the continent, the work being finished May 10th, 1869. A valuable thing about the book is the collection of photographs which illustrate it. Moviegoers will find scant relationship between these pictures and the various motion pictures based upon the events, mainly because of a resounding lack of glamour in these photographs. But they are so interesting that it would be worth charging out the book for a long and uninterrupted look at the pictures.

Valentin Chu, who is an editor for Life and Time magazines, has a new book on China called Ta Ta, Tan Tan, and as the old story goes, this, interpreted, means "Fight, fight, talk, talk". Mr. Chu tells us that this is the way Communists overran and took the China mainland, and this is the phrase they themselves use to describe how they worked. Fight, fight, talk, talk!

The next book is marred by a lack of pictures, it seems to me. The title is The Rag Race, and you are wrong if you think rag is a mistake and should be drag. This is the story of the garment industry in New York, and fashion in America. Here is Seventh Avenue in Manhattan, and here are all the secrets of who makes style in this country, who decides what colors are to be fashionable, where hemlines are to hover, where prices are to pause. The author is a Washington newspaperman, named Bernard Roshco.

Jimmy Durante, the well dressed man, is the subject of a biography by William Cahn. He called it Good Night, Mrs. Calabash, but even this author does not tell us exactly who Mrs. Calabash could be. There are a multitude of pictures, enough to delight even the most rabid Durante fan, and the world is full of them!

The Torah is composed of the first five books of the Old Testament Bible, and Edward Zerin has written of them in his book The Birth Of The Torah. The author is a Rabbi and a noted Bible scholar. The Torah evolved over a period of centuries and was the work of four schools of writers. Rabbi Zerin discusses all four schools and relates the birth of the Torah to the history of the Jewish people.

We have another in the series of California Natural History Guides, this one entitled Early Use Of California Plants. It was written by Edward Balls.

A flock of new novels, including some mysteries, and more factual things, so come in and check on them for yourselves.

Alice In Carmel Land

By Nancy Lofton

Friday night at 8:15 the lights go up on the Forest Theater stage for the latest in a series of productions dating back to 1910 when Bert Heron produced Constance Lindsey Skinner's "David." Since that time over six thousand poets, playwrights, actors, would-be actors, just plain folks and several animals have taken part in productions in what is claimed to be California's First Open Air Theater.

"Alice In Wonderland" with interpolations from "Through the Looking Glass" adapted for dramatic presentation will be produced Friday and Saturday nights, August 9 and 10, by children of Carmel, plus a few from Carmel Valley and Monterey and Pacific Grove, under the direction of Mrs. Richard Lofton. Sponsored by the Carmel Summer Recreation Program with assistance from the Carmel Unified School District Summer School, this is the first production of "Alice In Wonderland" since a 1945 production which included Nancy Brough, Sandi Harbick, Marcia Kuster, Nancy Brown, Dee Sharpe, Joan Lackey and Carol Hildebrand.

Bert Heron was the man who conceived the idea of the Forest Theater, selected the spot and started the theater on its way. He chose the site for the stage over fifty years ago, his eye caught by the pair of handsome Monterey pines which mark the ends of the proscenium. The land was acquired from the Real Estate Development Company and eventually was turned over to the city of Carmel. WPA money later replaced the first wooden stage with a soldier concrete and granite structure which supports the current stage.

Over thirty original plays, written by Carmel's talented sons and daughters, have been produced in the Forest Theater and for years the mark of a true Carmelite has been that he or she, sometime in his career, has appeared in a Forest Theater production. The true flavor of Carmel can be caught at night in the Forest Theater, when the fires blaze on either side of the stage, when the audience, muffled in rugs, wraps and pillows, watches the stars overhead, hears the sound of the sea in the background, and loses itself for an hour or two in complete enchantment.

Bert Heron has produced eight of Shakespeare's plays in the Theater. Another outstanding production was "Lysistrata" in 1951. Cole Weston and Dan Totheroh have both produced series of outstanding plays on the outdoor stage. Blanche Tolmie has done in the past a series of children's plays with children. During the current year the theater has been used for the city series of concerts and demonstrations to which the public is invited.

Tickets will be on sale at the Forest Theater every afternoon between 2 and 4 p.m. and at the box office at the theater from seven thirty on the nights of the performances. Patrons are urged to dress warmly and bring rugs and pillows. This may be California, but it is also seacoast.

Adobe Tour

A work of the late Jo Mora, famed Carmel sculptor, will be the central theme for the adobe house tour in Monterey this coming Saturday. The work, commissioned by the Hotel Del Monte in the '30s is called "La Novia", "The Wedding Party". It has been retained by the Naval Postgraduate School and still stands in the room for which it was intended.

A parade of colorfully attired horsemen and horsewomen will reenact the theme of the diorama, that of a festive early California wedding party, in Monterey. Each adobe will also feature a table setting in keeping with the theme, under the able direction of Mrs. Virginia Stanton, Carmel Valley resident and party editor for House Beautiful Magazine.

Houses to be visited and their individual decorations are:

Casa Abrego "Rehearsal Dinner."

Casa Amesti "Bachelor's Dinner."

Casa De La Torre "Bridesmaids' Luncheon."

First Federal Court "Despeda de Soltero."

House of Four Winds "Cascaron Ball Dinner."

Larkin House "Bridal Shower Luncheon."

Casa Serrano "Bridal Reception" and Garden Fiesta."

Casa Soberanes "Engagement Announcement Supper."

Whaling Station Inn "First Breakfast."

Tickets may be obtained at the Casa Serrano, 412 Pacific St., Monterey or at any of the adobes on the day of the tour.

ABOUT ARCHIE AND SOME STAR JASMINE

ONE OF OUR favorite clients who lives in one of our favorite houses in one of our favorite areas asked us to come out and see the jasmine. It was misty in Carmel and sunny in the Valley, so we drove right out. It's a delight just to enter the broad driveway into their enchanting 3 acres of oaks,, and the fragrance of jasmine met us at the gate.

Their charming adobe is wrapped comfortably around a spacious old brick terrace from which the view of the Santa Lucias is serene and unexcelled. Jasmine climbs the posts and along the broad overhang for more than 50 feet, and it was simply splendid. While we were having a cup of tea in the tranquil living room and looking out on all this beauty, a funny, bedragged little quail tripped up to the full-length glass window-doors. My clients introduced me to Archie, whose condition indicated he had fared poorly in his romantic ventures during the spring and summer, and who, at once comically and pathetically, found comfort in snuggling up to his reflection in the glass!

But you don't have to be a real estate broker who likes jasmine, or a quail who knows the feeling of "home" when he sees it, to appreciate this fine example of what love and care and nature can do to a gracious (Comstock post-adobe in 12 years. If you can afford the best for your retirement years, we'd love to show you this property which is priced at $97,500, preferably while the star jasmine is in its glory. Archie? Well, those nice people took him to a new home down the river where we all trust he has better luck with a different group of lady quail!

Letters . . . to The Editor

Dear Sir—
Editor, Carmel, Pine Cone

I as a taxpayer of Carmel, think I have the right to be interested in the way the town looks. My family have lived in Carmel since the early twenties, and have always prided themselves on living in such a beautiful area.

But lately part of Carmel has been just let go. And that is Carmel's once beautiful park. Especially now during the summer busy season Carmel should look good for its visitors.

Have you taken a good look at our Park lately? If so I'm sure you will be as upset as I am. Not over 4 months ago at the taxpayers expense, a good sprinkler system was installed. Why now is it hardly used and the park still watered by hand.

The area at the Mission & 6th corner was once a place where working people could enjoy their lunch. It is now strewn with papers. Papers, that have been there some time. Also people who wish to pick up can't for the paper can is packed.

All the paths need to be trimmed and swept. And I'm sure that a man from the city could take the whole park and that alone would help improve things.

Where people my age used to sit in front of the park on Ocean they can no longer do so. For the benches are overrun with plants and the sidewalk there is dangerous to both young and old.

I hope this letter gets some action both from you and the street department.

Thank You
An Upset Taxpayer

Novel Experience

"There has to be some kind of story telling in every culture, said Mona Williams, speaking recently to Maxine Shore's Carmel Adult School class. "The novel is now the thing because television does not satisfy those who love words, who are readers. Novels and factual books are now in more demand than ever. There are people for every interest; a needed book will be bought no matter what the cost."

Mrs. Williams stated that over 16,000 books were published in 1962, of which over half were fiction. "Although non-fiction books are less chancy, fiction is still being written more because authors find it zestful, fun."

Would the time come sometime in the future when machines would be writing novels? "Then have them read by machines!" she suggested. "Books are not a commodity like haruware — they are theater, world-wide ideas."

We now live in a telented beginners market," the speaker assured the writing class. "Times are attuned to improvisers and experimenters." The French writers, are experimenting by omitting meaning, instruction, analysis in their books. One book which Mrs. Williams had read recently was illustrated by a diagram as for a play, to be read with the eyes rather than with the brain. The new trend parallels impressionistic art, to be seen without judgment or analysis. "Characters become essences only."

One of the writers's functions, according to Mrs. Williams, "is to enrich the reader's understanding, illuminate his impulses."

Mona Williams, well known short story writer and novelist, recently sold a novelette to Metro Goldwyn Mayer for a motion picture.

Paws For Comment

We would like to thank our friend Miss Fontana of the S.P.C.A. for thanking us for our small contribution regarding the treatment of our friends in the scientific business.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Carpenter of Carmel tell us that their Hungarian Vizsla, Champion Sandor Von Debretsin, won best of breed at the Santa Barbara Show, July 28. As this is one of the largest dog shows in the West they should be proud, aside from the fact that he won in conformation over a dog purchased by a Miss Zsa Zsa Gabor for $1,500, who was shown by one of the top handlers in the country, Mr. Harry Sangster. Champion Sandor is six years old. Mr. Carpenter hopes to finish his obedience in C. D. (Companion Dog) in Salinas. (Obedience? Whatever in the tree-lined world is that?) As for this Zsa-Zsa, no one said if she took any blue ribbons or not, but we know a young Dachsie lady name of Hexi who belongs to Bob Rocco of the Pine Inn, and we've got an eye on it.

Speaking of shows, here's one we'd love to attend, as spectators you understand, but it seems to be against the rules.

The second annual showing held by the Emperio de' San Jose' Cat Fanciers' Club, and the long and short hair specialties sponsored by the Silver Cat Culb of the West and the Camellia City Short Hair Society, respectively, will be All-American scored.

Information and entries may be secured by writing the Emperio Club at 798 S. 11th St., San Jose, and a total fee of $4 will be charged.

Peter Jenkins Claims Bride

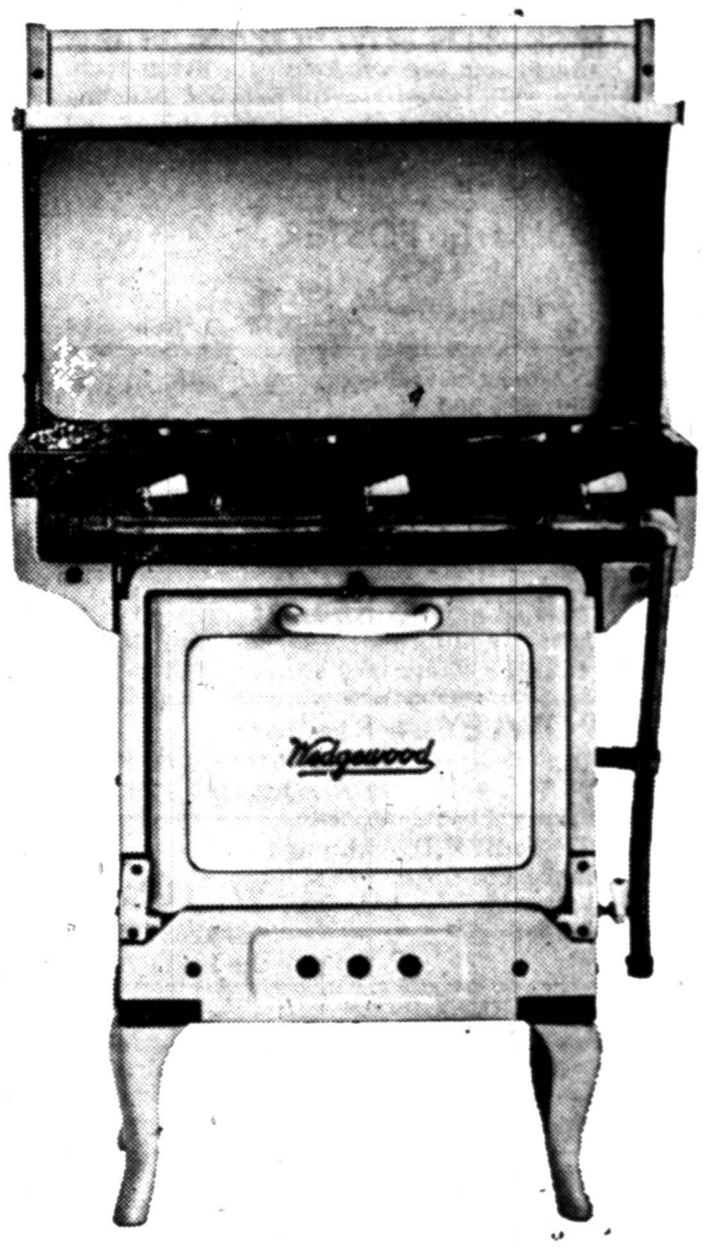
Mr. and Mrs. Leon Frazier of Walls, Miss., are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Michelle Ann, to Peter M. Jenkins of Pebble Beach.

Michelle is a June graduate of St. Joseph School of Nursing in Memphis.

Peter, son of Mrs. Louisa Jenkins of Big Sur and Matthew C. Jenkins of Pebie Beach, is a graduate of Lehigh University and is presently in the Navy stationed at Miramar.

After a November wedding the couple will live in San Diego.

What did ranges have in 1933 that they don't have today?



Answer: They had higher-priced gas and electricity . . . because PG&E prices are 8% lower today than thirty years ago.* (So how come your bill is bigger now? Just because you're using more and better appliances these days.)
